2024

Summary

Malta regularly reports hate crime information and data to ODIHR .

Malta implemented ODIHR's Training Against Hate Crimes for Law Enforcement (TAHCLE) programme in 2017, followed by a refresher Training-of-Trainer programme in 2025. In 2021, ODIHR held a workshop for civil society organizations in Malta on ODIHR's hate crime methodology and its application to the specific context of Malta.

ODIHR's Key Observation

ODIHR recognizes Malta's efforts to develop an innovative approach to understand hate online. However, based on available information, ODIHR observes that Malta does not collect data and statistics on hate crimes at the stage of prosecution and sentencing. In addition, ODIHR observes that Malta would benefit from raising awareness among and building the capacity of prosecutors and judges to record and address hate crimes.

Official Data

Police-recorded data are taken from police reports within the National Police System. Data on bias motivations are not recorded by prosecution and courts.

National Developments

Malta's Victim Support Agency (VSA), in collaboration with SOS Malta, is currently implementing an EU-funded project entitled 'Hatedemics'. This pilot research initiative aims to develop an innovative online database that identifies and categorizes annotations, verbal expressions, and written content commonly associated with hate speech. Through this project, the VSA seeks to contribute to a deeper understanding of how hate speech manifests online and offline, ultimately supporting more effective prevention strategies, educational outreach, and policy development in this area.

Incidents reported by civil society

For 2024, ODIHR did not receive any reports of hate incidents in Malta from civil society organizations. This is not an indication that hate crimes are not taking place, only that they have not been reported to civil society or to ODIHR.

To address under-reporting, ODIHR encourages any civil society organizations or groups that monitor hate incidents in Malta to report these to ODIHR at hatecrimereport@odihr.pl.
